If you could invent something to help the environment, what would it be?